

Lewis Tappan - July 6, 1844

New York, July 6/44.

Rev. A. A. Phelps
Boston

Dear Brother,

52

Yours of June 28th was duly rec^d.
I am pleased to learn that you can -
We will have (I. I.) a good talk.
I immediately applied to Mr Bidwell by a note, but he made no reply. (He is apt to do these.) Today
I have learned that he went to Saratoga Springs on the 3^d. I expected back on Tuesday. He will probably be at home the whole of next week.
His clerk says "he will be down from the Springs Tuesday morning."
Respecting the exchange I have not been able to do anything. When you come here we will try & send on some one for the 14th.

I have a letter from E. Wright Jr.
He gets along tolerably well, but is sick of his fabling. Can you devise some way of employing so talented a brother in this country?
Oh, if he had as much judgment as talent! We all need the holy out of man's love & the sanctifying influence of meekness. "The meek will be guided in judgment."

Sturgis is well. Feels more encouraged.
His affairs are in a better state - rather.
The Free Ch^l of Scotland pocket the slaveholder's money - and apologize for the act of their corrupt
That is, some of the leading men do.

Truly yours
Lewis Tappan
